

Elijah Watkins

Elijah Watkins is a trial attorney with Stoel Rives LLP, handling complex business litigation in both state and federal courts. He regularly represents companies in consumer and unlawful trade practices actions, intellectual property disputes, products liability matters, commercial contract disputes, and real property issues. He routinely defends manufacturers in cases involving asbestosis, mesothelioma, and silicosis. Elijah has appeared in state and federal courts across the country, including Idaho, Illinois, California, Utah, Texas, Florida, Kentucky, and Wyoming. He works with public and privately held businesses in several industries, including insurance, technology, healthcare, agriculture, construction, manufacturing, consumer products and financial services.

In addition to his extensive commercial client work, Elijah regularly provides pro bono counseling to domestic violence victims, political asylees, endangered children and incarcerated persons. Prior to moving back home to his native Idaho, Elijah practiced at Latham & Watkins, LLP in Chicago.